

INTERNET ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

Willows Preparatory School (WPS) makes Internet access available to students while on campus. Students are expected to use the WPS provided Internet responsibly and for school-related purposes only. As a condition for accessing the Internet, students understand and agree with the following:

- Use of the Internet is a privilege. If any of the “conditions of use” are violated, then the privilege may be taken away by WPS teachers or administrators, and other consequences may follow.
- Use of the Internet is for school-related purposes only. School administrators will decide what constitutes a violation of Internet policies. Violations include, but are not limited to:
 - Transmission, creation of, or deliberate access to obscene, indecent, harassing, defamatory, or otherwise offensive material in any form.
 - Access to any personal information page. (ex: Facebook or Twitter)
 - Any deliberate attempt to harm or destroy data.
 - Unauthorized installation, storage, or distribution of copyrighted software or files.
 - Violation of policies or federal and state laws. School administrators have the right to review any material received, sent, viewed, or stored on computers, including websites and emails. School administrators can edit or remove any material believed to be unlawful, obscene, indecent, harassing, or otherwise objectionable.
- Students are prohibited from giving out personal information such as their name, picture, telephone number, or home address while using the internet at school.
- Willows Preparatory School does not guarantee that the function of the Internet service will meet any specific requirements students may have or that the Internet service will be error-free or uninterrupted.
- All other related student policies are applicable.
